a,b,c,d - byte

Pb.13 a+b-c+d-(a-d)

```
bits 32; assembling for the 32 bits architecture
; declare the EntryPoint (a label defining the very first instruction of the program)
global start
;a+b-c+d-(a-d)
; declare external functions needed by our program
                         ; tell nasm that exit exists even if we won't be
extern exit
defining it
import exit msvcrt.dll ; exit is a function that ends the calling
process. It is defined in msvcrt.dll
                          ; msvcrt.dll contains exit, printf and all the other important C-runtime specific functions
; our data is declared here (the variables needed by our program)
segment data use32 class=data
   a db 2
   b db 3
    c db 5
    d db 7
; a+b-c+d-(a-d)=2+3-5+7-(2-7)=5-5+7+5=12
; our code starts here
segment code use32 class=code
    start:
       mov AL,byte[a] ;AL=a 2
        add AL,byte[b] ;AL=a+b 5 sub AL,byte[c] ;AL=a+b-c 7
        add AL, byte[d] ; AL=a+b-c+d mov AH, byte[a] ; AH=a 2
        sub AH, byte[d] ; AH=a-d
                                           -5
                     ; AL=a+b-c+d-(a-d) 7+5=12
        sub AL, AH
                          ; push the parameter for exit onto the stack push dword 0
        call [exit]
                            ; call exit to terminate the program
```

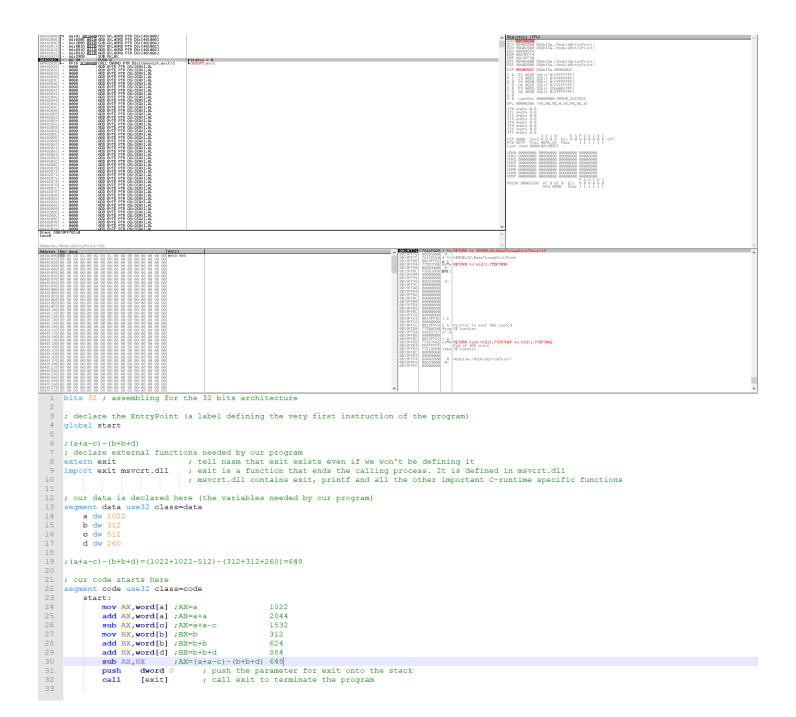

```
bits 32; assembling for the 32 bits architecture
; declare the EntryPoint (a label defining the very first instruction of
the program)
global start
;d-(a+b)+c
; declare external functions needed by our program
                         ; tell nasm that exit exists even if we won't be
extern exit
defining it
import exit msvcrt.dll ; exit is a function that ends the calling
process. It is defined in msvcrt.dll
                          ; msvcrt.dll contains exit, printf and all the
other important C-runtime specific functions
; our data is declared here (the variables needed by our program)
segment data use32 class=data
    a db 2
   b db 3
    c db 5
    d db 7
; d-(a+b)+c=7-(2+3)+5=7-5+5=7
; our code starts here
segment code use32 class=code
    start:
        mov AL, byte[d]; AL=d 2
        mov AH,byte[a]; AH=a
        add AH, byte[b]; AH=a+b
        sub AL, AH;
                   AL=d-(a+b) 7
        add AL, byte[c]; AL=d-(a+b)+c push
               dword 0
                            ; push the parameter for exit onto the stack
        call
                           ; call exit to terminate the program
               [exit]
```

Pb.13 (a+a-c) - (b+b+d)

```
bits 32; assembling for the 32 bits architecture
; declare the EntryPoint (a label defining the very first instruction of
the program)
global start
; (a+a-c) - (b+b+d)
; declare external functions needed by our program
extern exit
                          ; tell nasm that exit exists even if we won't be
defining it
import exit msvcrt.dll ; exit is a function that ends the calling
process. It is defined in msvcrt.dll
                           ; msvcrt.dll contains exit, printf and all the
other important C-runtime specific functions
; our data is declared here (the variables needed by our program)
segment data use32 class=data
    a dw 1022
    b dw 312
    c dw 512
    d dw 260
; (a+a-c) - (b+b+d) = (1022+1022-512) - (312+312+260) = 648
; our code starts here
segment code use32 class=code
    start:
        mov AX, word[a] ; AX=a 1022 add AX, word[a] ; AX=a+a 2044
        sub AX, word[c] ; AX=a+a-c 1532
        mov BX, word[b] ;BX=b 312
        add BX, word[b] ; BX=b+b 624
        add BX, word[d] ; BX=b+b+d 884
        sub AX, BX
                      ; AX = (a+a-c) - (b+b+d) 648
                dword 0 ; push the parameter for exit onto the stack
        push
        call [exit]
                             ; call exit to terminate the program
```

```
bits 32; assembling for the 32 bits architecture
; declare the EntryPoint (a label defining the very first instruction of
the program)
global start
; (a-b-c) + (a-c-d-d)
; declare external functions needed by our program
                         ; tell nasm that exit exists even if we won't be
extern exit
defining it
import exit msvcrt.dll ; exit is a function that ends the calling
process. It is defined in msvcrt.dll
                          ; msvcrt.dll contains exit, printf and all the
other important C-runtime specific functions
; our data is declared here (the variables needed by our program)
segment data use32 class=data
    a dw 1022
   b dw 312
    c dw 512
    d dw 260
; (a-b-c) + (a-c-d-d) = (1022-312-512) + (1022-512-260-260) = 188
; our code starts here
segment code use32 class=code
    start:
        mov AX, word[a]; AX=a 1022
        sub AX, word[b]; AX=a-b 710 sub AX, word[c]; AX=a-b-c 198 mov BX, word[a]; BX=a 1022
        sub BX, word[c]; BX=a-c 510 sub BX, word[d]; BX=a-c-d 250 sub BX, word[d]; BX=a-c-d-d
                                              -10
        add AX, BX; AX = (a-b-c) + (a-c-d-d) 188 push dword 0 ; push the parameter for exit onto the stack
        call
                [exit]
                            ; call exit to terminate the program
```

```
bits 32; assembling for the 32 bits architecture

; declare the EntryPoint (a label defining the very first instruction of the program)

global start

; ; declare external functions needed by our program

; declare external functions needed by our program

; declare external functions needed by our program

sextern exit ; tell nasm that exit exists even if we won't be defining it import exit msvort.dll ; is a function that ends the calling process. It is defined in msvort.dll ip import exit msvort.dll contains exit, printf and all the other important C-runtime specific functions ip our data is declared here (the variables needed by our program)

segment data use32 class—data

a dw 1022

b dw 312

c o dw 512

d dw 260

; (a-b-c)+(a-c-d-d)=(1022-312-512)+(1022-512-260-260)=188

; (a-b-c)+(a-c-d-d)=(1022-312-512)+(1022-512-260-260)=188

; our code starts here

segment code use32 class—code

start:

segment code use32 class—code

start:

mov AX, word[a]; AX=a 1022

sub BX, word[a]; AX=a-b-c 198[

mov BX, word[a]; BX=a-c 510

sub BX, word[a]; BX=a-c 510

sub BX, word[a]; BX=a-c 510

sub BX, word[a]; BX=a-c-d-d -10

add AX, EX; AX=(a-b-c)+(a-c-d-d) 188

push dword 0 ; push the parameter for exit onto the stack

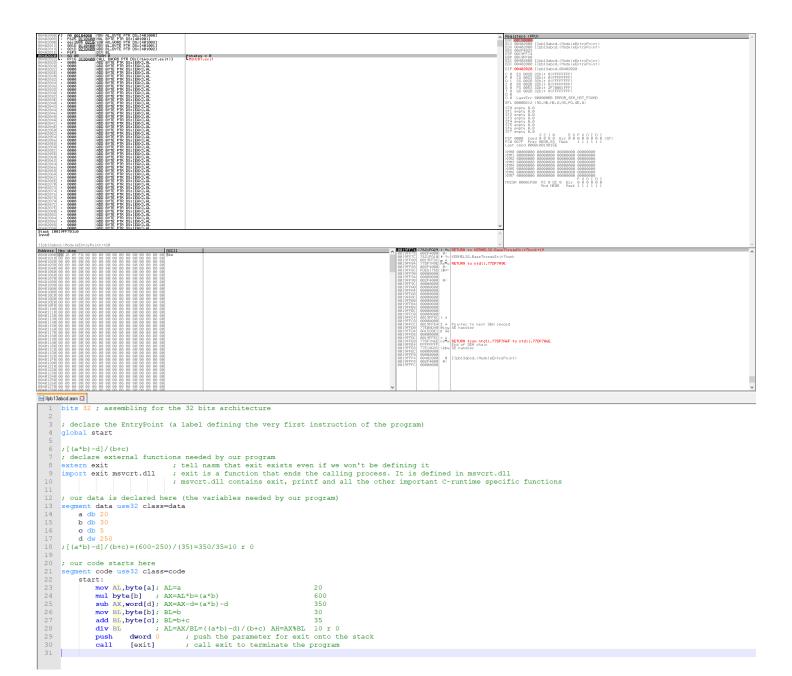

call [exit] ; call exit to terminate the program
```

Inmultiri,impartiri

a,b,c-byte d-word

Pb13 [(a*b)-d]/(b+c)

```
bits 32; assembling for the 32 bits architecture
; declare the EntryPoint (a label defining the very first instruction of
the program)
global start
; [(a*b)-d]/(b+c)
; declare external functions needed by our program
extern exit
                         ; tell nasm that exit exists even if we won't be
defining it
import exit msvcrt.dll ; exit is a function that ends the calling
process. It is defined in msvcrt.dll
                          ; msvcrt.dll contains exit, printf and all the
other important C-runtime specific functions
; our data is declared here (the variables needed by our program)
segment data use32 class=data
    a db 20
   b db 30
   c db 5
    d dw 250
; [(a*b)-d]/(b+c)=(600-250)/(35)=350/35=10 \text{ r } 0
; our code starts here
segment code use32 class=code
    start:
                                                           20 mov AL,byte[a]; AL=a mul byte[b] ; AX=AL*b=(a*b) 600
        sub AX, word[d]; AX=AX-d=(a*b)-d 350 30 mov BL,byte[b]; BL=b
        add BL, byte[c]; BL=b+c 35
                    ; AL=AX/BL=((a*b)-d)/(b+c) AH=AX%BL 10 r 0
              dword 0 ; push the parameter for exit onto the stack
        push
        call [exit] ; call exit to terminate the program
```

```
bits 32; assembling for the 32 bits architecture
; declare the EntryPoint (a label defining the very first instruction of
the program)
global start
;200-[3*(c+b-d/a)-300]
; declare external functions needed by our program
extern exit
                         ; tell nasm that exit exists even if we won't be
defining it
import exit msvcrt.dll ; exit is a function that ends the calling
process. It is defined in msvcrt.dll
                          ; msvcrt.dll contains exit, printf and all the
other important C-runtime specific functions
; our data is declared here (the variables needed by our program)
segment data use32 class=data
    a db 20
   b db 30
    c db 5
    d dw 250
;200-[3*(c+b-d/a)-300]=200-[3*(5+30-250/20)-300]=200-[3*(35-12)-300]=431
; our code starts here
segment code use32 class=code
    start:
       mov AX,word[d]; AX=d 250 div byte[a] ; AL=d/a 12
        mov BL, AL
                    ; BL=AL
       mov AL,byte[c]; AL=c
                                                5 35 add AL, byte[b]; AL=c+b
        sub AL, BL
                  ; AL=c+b-d/a 23
       mov BL, 3
                    ; BL=3
       mul BL
                    ; AX=3*(c+b-d/a) 69 mov BX,300 ; BX=300
        sub AX, BX
                    ; AX=3*(c+b-d/a)-300
                                               -231
       mov BX,200
                    ; BX=200
        sub BX, AX ; BX=200-3*(c+b-d/a)-300 431=1AF
        push
               dword 0 ; push the parameter for exit onto the stack
        call
               [exit]
                           ; call exit to terminate the program
```

```
| Color | Colo
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     IIpb18abod.(NodwleEntryPoint)
IIpb18abod.(NodwleEntryPoint)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           CHSUCRT.ex
                                                                                                                                                                                                     innt.evit>1
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   TST 0000 Cond 0 0 0 0 ESPU02DI

CON 027F Prec MEMR.53 Mask 1 1 1 1 1 1

2ast ownd 7862; 7874100
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   80 FZ 0 DZ 0 Err 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 Fnd NERR Hask 1 1 1 1 1 1 Training to make the control of the
                         bits 32; assembling for the 32 bits architecture
                       ; declare the EntryPoint (a label defining the very first instruction of the program)
                           ;200-[3*(c+b-d/a)-300]
                             y declare external functions needed by our program

extern exit ; tell nasm that exit exists even if we won't be defining it import exit msvcrt.dll ; exit is a function that ends the calling process. It is defined in msvcrt.dll

; msvcrt.dll contains exit, printf and all the other important C-runtime specific functions
                           ; our data is declared here (the variables needed by our program) segment data use32 class=data a db 20 b db 30 15
16
17
18 19 20 21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
29 30
31
33
33
34 35
36 37
                       c db 5
d dw 250
;200-[3*(c+b-d/a)-300]=200-[3*(5+30-250/20)-300]=200-[3*(35-12)-300]=431
                           ; our code starts here segment code use32 class=code
                             ; our code starts here
segment code use32 class=code
start:

mov AX,word[d]; AX=d
div byte[a]; AL=d/a
mov BL,AI; BL=AL
mov AL,byte[d]; AL=c+b sub AL,BI; AL=c+b-d/a mov BL,3 mul BL; AX=3*(c+b-d/a)
mov BL,3
mul BL; AX=3*(c+b-d/a)
mov BX,300; EX=300;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  250
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         69 mul BL ; Ax-3 (C-1)
mov BX,300 ; BX=300
sub AX,BX ; AX=3*(c+b-d/a)-300 -231
mov BX,200 ; BX=200
sub BX,AX ; BX=200-3*(c+b-d/a)-300 431=1AF
push dword 0 ; push the parameter for exit onto the stack
call [exit] ; call exit to terminate the program
```

```
bits 32; assembling for the 32 bits architecture
; declare the EntryPoint (a label defining the very first instruction of
the program)
global start
; (q+5) - a*d
; declare external functions needed by our program
extern exit
                         ; tell nasm that exit exists even if we won't be
defining it
import exit msvcrt.dll ; exit is a function that ends the calling
process. It is defined in msvcrt.dll
                          ; msvcrt.dll contains exit, printf and all the
other important C-runtime specific functions
; our data is declared here (the variables needed by our program)
segment data use32 class=data
    a db 12
    d db 23
    g dw 276
; (g+5) -a*d=276+5-12*23=5=5h
; our code starts here
segment code use32 class=code
   start:
        mov AL,byte[a]; AL=a 12
        mul byte[d] ; AX=a*d 276
       mov BX,5
                  ; BX=5
        add BX,word[g]; BX=q+5 281
                   ; BX=(g+5)-a*d
                                      5=5h
        sub BX, AX
        push dword 0
                         ; push the parameter for exit onto the stack
                           ; call exit to terminate the program
        call [exit]
```

```
bits 32; assembling for the 32 bits architecture
; declare the EntryPoint (a label defining the very first instruction of
the program)
global start
; f+(c-2)*(3+a)/(d-4)
; declare external functions needed by our program
extern exit
                         ; tell nasm that exit exists even if we won't be
defining it
import exit msvcrt.dll ; exit is a function that ends the calling
process. It is defined in msvcrt.dll
                          ; msvcrt.dll contains exit, printf and all the
other important C-runtime specific functions
; our data is declared here (the variables needed by our program)
segment data use32 class=data
    a db 5
    c db 12
    d db 6
    f dw 508
f + (c-2) * (3+a) / (d-4) = 508 + 10 * 8 / 2 = 508 + 40 = 548 = 224h
; our code starts here
segment code use32 class=code
    start:
        mov AL,byte[c]; AL=c 12
        sub AL, 2
                    ; AL=c-2 10
       mov BL, 3
                     ; BL=3
        add BL, byte[a]; BL=3+a 8
        mul BL
                   ; AX=(c-2)*(3+a) 8.0
        mov BL,byte[d]; BL=d 6 sub BL, 4 ; BL=d-4 2
                    ; AL=(c-2)*(3+a)/(d-4) 40
        div BL
        mov AH, 0 ; AH=0
        add AX, word[f]; AX=f+(c-2)*(3+a)/(d-4) 548=224h
               dword 0 ; push the parameter for exit onto the stack
        call
                [exit]
                           ; call exit to terminate the program
```

```
IIpb18abcdefgh.(ModwleEntryPoint)
IIpb18abcdefgh.(ModwleEntryPoint)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          IIpb18abcdefgh.(ModwleEntryPoint)
IIpb18abcdefgh.(ModwleEntryPoint)
                                                                                            (401008)
                                                                                                                                    Estatus = 8
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   8T7 enpty 0.0

3 2 10 ESPU07 DI

PST 0800 Cond 0 0 0 0 Err 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 (GT)

PCW 027F Prec NEAR, 53 Hask 1 1 1 1 1 1

ast cond 0800 1801 1802 0
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 NOTIFIED AND ADDRESS OF THE TOTAL STREET, A ST
              bits 32 ; assembling for the 32 bits architecture
             ; declare the EntryPoint (a label defining the very first instruction of the program)
     4 global start
             ;f+(c-2)*(3+a)/(d-4)
             ; our data is declared here (the variables needed by our program)
               segment data use32 class=data 14
15 16
                           a db 5
c db 12
d db 6
f dw 508
17
18 19 20 21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
29 30
31
32
33
34 35
             ;f+(c-2)*(3+a)/(d-4)=508+10*8/2=508+40=548=224h
              ; our code starts here
                  segment code use32 class=code
                           ment code ==:
start:
mov AL,byte[c]; AL=c
sub AL,2; AL=c-2
mov BL,3; BL=3+a
add BL,byte[a]; BL=3+a
; AX=(c-:
                                               mul BL ; AX=(c-2)*(3+a)
mov BL,byte[d]; BL=d 80 mov Bi, byte(d); BL=d 6

sub BL, 4 ; BL=d-4

div BL ; AL=(c-2)*(3+a)/(d-4) 40

mov AH, 0 ; AH=0

add AX, word[f]; AX=f+(c-2)*(3+a)/(d-4) 548=224h

push dword 0 ; push the parameter for exit onto the stack

call [exit] ; call exit to terminate the program
```